'i'm bored'

A phrase heard all too often this time of year in households with school-aged children. Try reviving these tried and true outdoor games and activities to stretch out the fun this summer.

Traditional Games like Red Light - Green Light, Mother May I, Capture the Flag, Three Legged Race, What Time Is It Mr. Wolf?

Build a lemonade stand to beat the heat and make a few bucks while you're at it!

Collect and press wild flowers (and weeds!), to use as decorations and future craft projects.

Design a treasure hunt by hiding a prize (message or toy). Make a map for your friend or sibling to follow, then switch it up and have them do the same for you.

Get your Tie-Dye on and turn a plain old t-shirt into an explosion of colour!

Soccer Baseball or Watermelon Soccer (in the water!) are perfect for large groups and all abilities.

Tag - all kinds! Freeze, Up and Down (safe when off the ground), Flashlight (at night), Cartoon (unfreeze by shouting out a character name), Amoeba

PR SEPTIC & CITY WATER

Five countries are cleverly concealed in each of the following 5 sentences. See if you can uncover them.

1. "Let's move the couch in after lunch," said Samantha.
2. "Can a dash of salt really make the stew tastier?" asked Josh.
3. Mr. Jones says we dented his fender, but we didn't!" protested Tom.
4. If I could only find a fortune in diamonds," sighed Jenny, wistfully.
5. Said Russ, "I am very thirsty. Please pour me some lemonade."

1. I am. 2. Russia. 3. Russia. 4. Russia. 5. Russia.

warden stories

Stories let us share information in a way that creates an emotional connection. They convey culture, history, and values that unite people and act as an entry point to understanding a different experience of the world. With the help of locals like Don Sipes, the Waskesiu Heritage Museum has documented and preserved an impressive collection of verbal history. Enjoy this story as an introduction to the experiences of park wardens (and their families) living and working in the earlier days of Prince Albert National Park.

My name is Don Sipes. I was born at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan in 1944. My first home was Boundary Cabin in the Boundary District of Prince Albert National Park (PANP).

My dad, Ed Sipes was appointed to the Canadian National Park Warden Service in 1943. He, my mother Mabel, and my older brother Dick moved to Boundary that same year. Boundary was the most northerly and remote district on the west side of the park. We moved south to Sturgeon Crossing in 1945 where we resided for nine years. We then moved to Silver Grove on the South Side of the park, followed by a move to Waskesiu Townsite in 1959. My parents suffered hard times during the Great Depression and my dad felt privileged to be part of the Warden Service.

The communities bordering the south and west sides of the park are: Cookson (south of Silvergrove) Stump Lakes(south of Rabbit Cabin) Park Valley and Lake Four (west of Sturgeon Crossing) and Ladder Valley (west of Boundary Cabin). Big River is about twenty miles west of Sturgeon Crossing and Boundary.

My Dad loved a good story and loved to tell stories. Most of the stories I relate here are about our lives in the districts of PANP. Some I only remember because I heard them so I can't vouch for their accuracy. Many of the events from which they came were before I was old enough to remember or I was away at school when they took place. I am sure the stories were embellished as they were told and retold. In some cases, I remember the stories but don't remember the principal individuals involved. A few are from personal experience.

In the course of putting these stories together, I was able to reconnect with others I knew from when I lived in the park: Elsie (Jervis) Jefford, Don Dickenson, Cathy Corrigan, and Ron Davies. I'd like to offer a special thanks to Ron for a number of phone calls in which he provided a few of his own stories and his recollections of the very early days of the Park. Special thanks also to Cathy for graciously sharing her father's notes on early wardens. I hope to do more in the future with the information they provided.

I will do my best to relate these stories as I heard them.

District Life in the Warden Service

Life in the districts was totally unique not only for the wardens but for their families as well. Prince Albert National Park (PANP) was divided into districts. Each district had a cabin that shared the same name as the district. Wardens were assigned to a district. They didn't follow a regular workweek or work a shift. They and their family were the sole residents of their district and they were responsible for it at all times.

There is something uniquely beautiful about living in wilderness surroundings. A quiet absence of all humanly generated noise and light is something few of us get to experience today. To step outdoors on a cold evening to a choir of bugling elk, yowling coyotes, and howling wolves makes the hair on the back of your neck tingle. Bright starry skies and intense northern light displays whose whisper you can hear are unforgettable.

Access to schooling was the biggest hardship. My older brother Dick rode about five miles on horseback to school at Rapid Bend, Lake Four, and Park Valley - an arduous trip at minus 40°F. I started boarding away from home at age six. I'm sure my mother shed more than a few tears of concern.

We lived without electricity, refrigeration, running water, or indoor bathrooms. At the time, we didn't see those things as hardship. We just lived in ways that made those facilities unnecessary.

We had a battery powered Stromberg Carlson Console radio and a long wire antenna. With no electrical interference, you could truly tune in the world: radio plays from the BBC in London and fights from Madison Square Garden in New York.

The isolation and social distancing experienced by people during the COVID-19 pandemic lockdown were once our normal and it didn't bother us at all.

The Warden Service was a quasi-military institution. Wardens wore a uniform, followed a chain of command, and were subject to inspections for the results of their responsibilities.

Wardens were law enforcement officers. Their primary role was to enforce the National Parks Act of Canada which required them to protect the Park, its wildlife, and its property. However, the job often involved much more.

keeping wildlife wild

Keeping wildlife wild is a shared responsibility - we all have a role to play!

The chance to observe wildlife in their natural environment is one of the most fascinating experiences that Prince Albert National Park has to offer. Along with this opportunity comes the responsibility to treat wildlife with respect and to share these natural spaces safely with them.

When an animal learns to associate people with food, or becomes "food conditioned", the animal will frequent areas that are unsafe and may begin to adopt bold or aggressive behaviours towards people. This puts the safety of people and the animal at risk. Because of this, feeding wildlife in a national park indirectly by leaving food unattended, littering or not properly disposing of garbage, or directly by offering them food, is illegal under the Canada National Parks Act.

We thank you for storing all food, scented items and garbage appropriately, such as inside your accommodation building, vehicle, hard-sided RV or by using a designated storage facility provided by Parks Canada, for not littering, and for disposing of garbage into bear-proof garbage bins.

Please visit pc.gc.ca/en/pn-np/sk/princealbert (also available in french) for more information about Prince Albert National Park, including wildlife safety.

A BARDS DREAM

There was a time long ago,
when Bards were valued highly,

poetry was the show,
down this forgotten by-way,

Stages strewn with flowers,
enticing the air to sing,
soft strains of music playing,
Bards' reciting words for hours,

to laughing, clapping, cheering.

For Obids lyric wit, Homers, Liad, Pinders' heroic tributes to kings!

Alas, since medieval poetic
lore,
stages slowly gave up their
wings,
and the bell for barbs, knells
no more.

What are these flashy concerts today?

Where explosions 'n' smoke
abound,

It stimulates the senses,
sure!

But the heart cannot be found.

"Oh" for that gentle, sweet,
connection, of one's heart,
mind, 'n soul, the cure!
Gold ever! In its finest form
Could never be so pure!

what is mahjong?

a Chinese game played, usually by four people, with 136 or 144 rectangular pieces called tiles. The object is to collect winning sets of these tiles, as in card games such as gin rummy. Check out the Emma Lake Golf Course for weekly games at

Bonded estate and property solutions for you and your family.

Let us help take the stress out of the transition!

I offer a kind, caring approach that I bring to everything I do. Having been a realtor since 2007, I bring vast experience in property development, interior decorating, and staging services. As an owner/caretaker of a 55+ living complex, I have extensive lease and property management experience.

After assisting parents as they transitioned into a new home situation, and hearing of many friends' experiences helping their families at these pivotal stages of life I was motivated to start this service. I am here to assist you and your families with the difficult tasks that come with these life transitions.

I look forward to helping you find the right estate & property solutions!

Tracy Fiske

public service announcement From the Lakeland Citizens on Patrol Program

Criminals live everywhere even at the lake! Don't make it easy for them to steal from you. Do you have a checklist for securing your property and equipment? Do you have a list of valuable property? Use your drivers license number to engrave your property. It makes your items more difficult to sell. When property is recovered it is easier for the police to prove ownership and link it to the break and enter.
