the art of remembering

Vacationland News is a submission-based newsletter focused on businesses, services, community groups, programs and events in the Lakeland and surrounding area.

Taking time to commemorate dark times in our history may just help to avoid situations of conflict in our future. Memorials are created to link the past to the present; and allow us to honour the sacrifice of those who died, fought, participated or were affected by war.

Vacationland News is proud to showcase a number of illustrations in this issue, created by students in grade 6 & 8 from Christopher Lake Public School, to memorialize the significance of Remembrance Day through art.

Most in-person Remembrance Day ceremonies are not possible this year due to COVID-19. Be sure to check out a virtual ceremony and take time to remember on Nov. 11th (details inside). In honour of all current, past and fallen members who have served our country - we remember.

a look back...

Vacationland News is excited to feature writing from Saskatchewan author, researcher, editor and former Lakeland area gal - Merle Massie. Merle's book, Forest Prairie Edge; Place History in Saskatchewan, is a well known title that explores the landscape, culture and life-stories of people from the Paddockwood/Lakeland area. Enjoy this piece of local history, excerpted from her book. Let us know if the story, places or people are familiar to you - we'd love to learn more!

(CHAPTER FIVE: QUALITY OF PERMANENCY, pg. 167)

Best friends David Dunn and James Stoddart, born in Scotland in 1885, were among the thousands of immigrants who came to western Canada in search of a new beginning. Taking harvest work in the Rosnern area of Saskatchewan, between Saskatoon and Prince Albert, they heard about the new homestead land opened up north of Prince Albert. Filing on adjoining pieces, the two continued their quest to build capital, working on farms and in cordwood camps, freighting, and construction to get a few dollars ahead. But the quest for capital threatened their long-term dreams: with no improvements on their homesteads, they were about to lose them. The men conferred. Homestead rules dictated a simple solution: they abandoned their two quarters, claiming that they were too stony to farm. Opting to abandon the land and lose the ten-dollar filing fee gained them time and retained their homestead rights. By 1914, they felt confident in their savings and together filed again, on two quarter sections next door to their originals, not far from the burgeoning village of Paddockwood. Erecting a log house, barn, and well, and breaking four acres on each property by 1915, the two were well on their way to fulfilling their homestead duties. But the war grew in strength and needed able men. Dunn and Stoddart signed on with the Prince Albert 44 Battery Royal Canadian Army.

Returning from the theatre of war in 1919, Dunn and Stoddart brought home English war brides and a posse of fellow soldiers ready for new lives at Paddockwood. A grateful government offered each a quarter section Soldier Grant in addition to a homestead, doubling potential acreage, plus loans to purchase new livestock and machinery. The men set about finding a "quality of permanency" in their lives.<sup>2</sup>

...

Soldier settlement policies moved distinctly toward promoting mixed farming as the most "sure" farming practice. As a result, the government recognized several important factors: the increased costs required to build a mixed farm; the amount of time required to set that farm on solid financial ground; farming experience as a major contributing factor in success; the importance of women in farming; and the need to build mixed farms in drought-resistant, ecologically mixed landscapes, such as the ecotone of the forest fringe.

Building on years of promotion as "The Home of Mixed Farming," the north Prince Albert region was ideally suited to the new experiment in sustained settlement and became a preferred destination.<sup>11</sup> Ongoing environmental disaster and drought on the open plains—which intensified during the spring and summer of 1919 when soldiers were arriving home and searching for land—also directed soldier settlement north, away from drought regions.<sup>12</sup> Prince Albert boosters found a receptive audience. Sustaining the new settlers, as opposed to merely registering them, became the new focus. In the postwar era, land settlement policies expanded to focus on building and sustaining farms, not just creating them.

Lakeland Lions deliver!

If you were one of the lucky kids whose parents drove you through the Lakeland Lions Halloween Treats Drive-In this past weekend - you probably left with a huge bag of treats, and an even bigger smile on your face!

Club volunteers saw over 170 of those happy (and spooky) faces as they loaded treat bags through vehicle windows in the parking lot of the Legion Hall. The turnout this year broke records for the club who typically put together around 120 treat bags for their annual Halloween Party.

The annual party is a local favourite for families in the area - always a packed event of games, hot-dogs, treats and contests for the kids to enjoy. This year's party was a no-go due to Covid, but the club didn't want to let all those little ghosts and goblins down - thus, the idea of a drive-in was sparked!

A note from the Lakeland Lions

Special thanks to Gladys Selander, Kathy Boulding, Heather Button, Sue Loeppky and Debbie Juker for helping the lions sort and bag the treats.

A big thank you to Kevin Hoodle for removing the snow from the Legion parking lot and to all the Lions who directed traffic and handed out treats.

On a personal note, I would like to thank all the 174 children that came out and brought back all those warm memories of when I was a child and made this event so successful.

celebrating community builders

2020 Lakeland Citizens of the Year Lori & Lance Fehr

Unlike previous years, the usual evening celebration to honour Lori and Lance will not take place. Instead, arrangements are being made for a video production consisting of greetings and presentations. We hope this will be a meaningful tribute to this well-deserving couple who have supported our community in so many ways.

Contact Cheryl at (306) 961-2967 if you would like to send greetings, give a gift and/or make a video presentation to Lori and Lance.

rock'n the curl'n rink

Jacquie Swiderski is back. This time with tips for curlers of all ages and abilities! Here is a little more info about Lakelands' own curling guru.

Sixty-six years ago my father taught me to curl at the Northside rink. In 1985, I was delighted to take my first formal instruction. Since then, I have been striving to improve my skills. Over a couple of years I completed my Level 1, Level 2, and Part of Level 3 Coach/Instructor. I was fortunate to get invited to several high performance weekends offered by Curl Sask. I have curled at the Provincial level in High School, Ladies, Mixed, Intermediate, Seniors, Masters, and Retired Teachers. I taught a curling class for 3 years at SUNTEP. For 26 years I have assisted with the junior program and taught adult clinics in Lakeland and other towns.

I Love Curling! I am happy to give back to the sport whenever I can.

Curling Tip#1 : I believe curling is 40% physical skills and 60% mental attitude. Case in point: Before I took formal lessons I thought I was a good curler, I made a lot of shots. Looking back I realize my technique was not good - yet I had a lot of success. Many people are content to curl at their present level. That is fine, when all they want is to socialize and get a bit of exercise. Losing is okay, but winning is more fun! To improve ones percentages it often takes only a small change, plus a little practice.

did you know?

A few facts about the origin and symbolism of Remembrance Day.

Remembrance Day was first observed in 1919 throughout the British Commonwealth. It was originally called "Armistice Day" to commemorate armistice agreement that ended the First World War on Monday, November 11, 1918, at 11 a.m.—on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

The poppy became widespread in Europe after soils in France and Belgium became rich in lime from debris and rubble from the fighting during the First World War. These little red flowers also flourished around the gravesites of the war dead.

On Saturday Nov. 9, 1918, two days before the Armistice, Moina Michael was on duty in the reading room at the YMCA Overseas War Secretaries' headquarters in New York—a place where U.S. servicemen would often gather with friends and family to say their goodbyes before they went overseas. After reading McCrae's poem, Moina made a personal pledge to always wear the red poppy of Flanders Fields as a sign of remembrance and for "keeping the faith with all who died."

remembering in paddockwood

The Paddockwood Legion Branch #31 was established after the First World War in 1925. Many First World War Veterans took up homesteads in the area and contributed to the development of the community through the Soldier Settlement Board - a loan established in Canada in 1917 to assist returned servicemen to set up farms.

The cenotaph, which now sits in front of the community hall (pictured below), bears over seven hundred names. Members who served in World War I, World War II, Second Boer War, Korean War and the Vietnam War are listed. Those veterans who were killed in action are marked with a cross.

A video recording of this year's ceremonies (laying of the wreaths and reading of the names) will be uploaded to the Paddockwood Community Facebook page.

To purchase a wreath, contact Elaine at (306) 961-4840.
